Thank You!

for supporting the AiPol Police Journal.

The Australasian Institute of Policing was established by police practitioners to further the policing profession. The Institute comprises of police practitioners from all State and Federal police, the Australian Crime Commission, Border Force, all State Correctional Facilities and other policing agencies across Australasia.

The AiPol Police Journal is distributed to members in both hardcopy and electronic magazine formats. It is an essential communication tool for our organisation and your support is greatly appreciated. A special mention must go to our official publishers Countrywide Austral, who help us to put each edition together.

Once again, many thanks.
